issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau "The way to get the ear of a busy man in a busy time is to use the telephone," said a King street merchant the other day. "One afternoon I went to a certain bank for the purpose of getting some paper discounted. The man who passes on these things was sitting at his desk listening to the business troubles of a middle aged lady. Two gentlemen with anxious faces stood outside the counter waiting for an audience and I saw my chance of an interview before closing time was slim. Did I wait? No. I went into a friend's office close by and rang up rected for temperature, instrumental the banker. Telephone service is very prompt when banks are called. Almost instantly I heard a 'Hello!' It is mentioned, in the same connection, that Delegate Kuhio will abstain from running for renomination by the Republican party so as not to be in his friend Wood's way. This would be a very considerate way of taking to the woods by the present Delegate. The Republican party can ill afford to lose a standard-bearer of nerve sufficient to suggest that he holds the balance of power of the two great parties combined. If only the nerve had been used in Congress for the benefit of Hawaii, though, what a lot of private enterprise in the public behoof might have been reserved for other useful purposes!
